

Opening address

Dear Participants,

We are delighted to welcome you to AISS 2023 conference. Due to the schedule of most of participants have conflicts with AISS 2023, most of them cannot attend the offline conference, so we have to change our conference 2023 5th International Conference on Advanced Information Science and System (AISS 2023) to be online on Dec. 3, 2023.

Changing the format however shall not affect the desire of the conference. We wish to continue our communication to share our new research ideas, discuss challenges and form collaborations to solve various issues on 2023 International Conference on Advanced Information Science and System. Also, the change of conference form will not influence the papers' publication and indexing. All the registered and presented papers will be included in the conference proceedings, which will be published by ITM Web of Conferences (eISSN: 2271-2097).

After several rounds of review procedures, the program committee accepted those papers to be published in conference proceedings. We wish to express our sincere appreciation to all the individuals who have contributed to AISS 2023. Special thanks are extended to our colleagues in program committee for their review of all the submissions, which is vital to the success of the conferences, and to the members in the organizing committee who had dedicated their time and efforts in planning, promoting, organizing and helping the conferences. Last but not the least, our special thanks go to our speakers: Prof. Tan Ying, Peking University, China; Assoc. Prof. Ata Jahangir Moshayedi, Jiangxi University, China; Prof. Kwang-Cheng Chen, University of South Florida, USA; Prof. Prabhas Chongstitvatana, Chulalongkorn University, Thailand for all the kind and patient support and assistance they offered to our whole conference procedures.

In all, I would like to express my deepest gratitude to all of you sitting here, to the whole organizing committee, to all the reviewers and those who are not able to show up today, for your great support for AISS 2023.

While we are not able to meet each other face to face, we hope the conference can still establish a solid linkage among all the participant as desired. We look forward to your contribution to making AISS 2023 a success.

AISS 2023